

CHURCH OF THE COMFORTER OBSERVES SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Pastor Recounts History of Congregation of Which Late Miss Reynolds Was Such a Devoted Member—Steady Growth is Shown.

Sunday morning at the Church of the Comforter the church auditorium was filled to listen to an historical address by the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe in commemoration of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the church.

The sermon was as follows: Text, First Samuel 7:12, "Then Samuel took a stone and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it Ebenezer, saying, 'Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.' These very familiar words have been used on occasions like the present and it seems to me to be well adapted to the service which we are holding this morning.

It seems right and proper for us to occupy our thoughts this morning with a history of this church of the Lord Jesus Christ. The review of the past and the contemplation of the present will be the best guide for our actions in the future.

It is most unfortunate that the minutes of the consistory were destroyed by fire some years ago so that we have comparatively few of the historical facts collected together in this address I am indebted to the old minute book; also to Miss Sarah B. Reynolds, who would frequently come to the parsonage and tell about the church and its history. Then, too, I have had access to a historical sermon preached by the Rev. Charles L. Palmer at the fortieth anniversary of the church. In some cases I have quoted verbatim but for the most part I have entirely changed the phraseology.

It was in the fall of 1850 that Henrietta Wynkoop, co-operating with Henry H. Reynolds, erected a suitable building for Sunday school and divine worship. This building is still standing, and at the present time is occupied as a dwelling. At that time, 73 years ago, there were no streets, and the chapel stood out in a field. The opening services were held on a Sunday in September, 1850, and were conducted by Rev. Henry Muller, then pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church, through the gratuitous services of actors in Rondout and Kingston. These Sunday afternoon services were continued for some time. Sometimes when unable to secure a clergyman, Mr. Reynolds would lead a sermon to the congregation.

In the month of May 1851, the Sunday school was established. Mr. Reynolds had notified the community of his wish to organize a Sunday school, and invited all who were interested to be present. Only three responded, Mary Ann, Cornelia and Sarah Taylor. These three, together with Henry H. Reynolds, Francis W. Reynolds and Augustus W. Reynolds constituted the entire Sunday school at the first session.

On the following Sunday, Mrs. Reynolds accompanied her husband and became a teacher, and three scholars were added to the roll, namely, Mary Wackenhagen and Mary and Lucy Shufeldt. From that time up to the present moment the school has continued to increase both in influence and numbers, and now has an enrollment of 319 and is in a most prosperous condition under the leadership of devoted teachers. It is safe to say that there are few Sunday schools in the city in a more flourishing condition, or accomplishing more for the good of the community, than the Sunday school of the Church of the Comforter.

Miss Reynolds continued as a teacher for nearly two years, when she was prostrated with the dread disease of smallpox, and the school was for a time discontinued. The preaching services, however, continued. On the resumption of the Sunday school, Miss Henrietta Wynkoop became associated with the superintendent, the care of the school, taking the place formerly occupied by Miss Reynolds. Miss Wynkoop was a most devoted and benevolent Christian woman, who brought joy in giving her life and means in the service of her Master. The records also speak of two persons who were faithful teachers. Mrs. Wackenhagen and Mrs. Shufeldt. At a later period Mrs. Reynolds became interested and devotedly served as teachers in the Sunday school.

It was quite evident by this time that the Sunday school and the preaching service had become a necessary part of the life of the community. The proof of this statement lay in the fact that the building became too small for the people who attended, and so an addition was made to the building in order that the needs of the school might be met.

Several of the ministers who officiated at the services became deeply interested and by their encouragement and support proved themselves friends of the enterprise. Among this number were the Rev. Mr. Hopkins of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, the Rev. Mr. Phillips of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Mr. Barnes of Kingston.

Both were granted and the Rev. Abram Fort was appointed to take charge. It was about this time that a weekly prayer meeting was started and held on Wednesday evening. A little later, the time was changed to an early hour on Sunday evening. For some years this service has been held on Thursday evening. Among the laymen who were loyal to these services through their active cooperation were Chauncey E. Goodrich, who from the first found great pleasure in leading the singing at all the services; Charles Taylor, William C. Hale and William Ostrander; and subsequently, John and Abram Van Gaasbeek, James Delaney, John R. Burhans and Charles Fisk.

In 1856, at a stated session of the Classis of Ulster, held in Plattekill Reformed church, April 15th, a petition was presented to the Classis asking them to consider the propriety of organizing a church at Wiltwyck. A committee, consisting of Revs. N. P. Chapman, J. Elmendorf and Elder Philip Hendrick was appointed to investigate the matter.

At the fall session of Classis, held in the Reformed church at North Esopus, October 14th, 1856 they reported adversely. At this time according to the report of the committee there were about seventy families in the mission and seventy scholars in the Sunday school, but they did not feel that the time had come to organize a distinct church. Mr. Fort was taken ill in the fall of 1859 and was obliged to discontinue his labors. His death occurred according to the records, Aug. 23, 1860.

In the year 1860, a very talented young minister by the name of Rev. Wm. A. Shaw received an appointment from the Board of Domestic Missions to take charge of this mission. When Mr. Shaw assumed his duties, the Sunday school was held at 2 o'clock and preaching service at 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, but two years later, in 1862, divine worship was held both morning and afternoon.

The following year, May 27th, 1863, the Reformed Church of the Comforter was organized. Rev. Wm. A. Shaw presented a memorial to the Classis of Ulster, in session at Flatbush, April 21st, 1863, to organize the mission into a church. This memorial was read and referred to the committee on missions which consisted of the chairman, Rev. H. Ostrander, Rev. J. Minor and Elder TenBroeck. After due consideration, this committee offered a resolution that a committee consisting of the Rev. Messrs. Gaston and Chapman and Elder Boice be and is hereby appointed to visit the place in order to obtain necessary information of the expediency of such new organization. They were given power to call an extra session of the Classis, providing they thought it expedient to form a new church.

An extra session of Classis was called and was held May 12, 1863, at the missionary station, Wiltwyck. (The Rev. Palmer's 40th anniversary address says it was held at Port Ewen, but the minutes say Wiltwyck.) The committee reported that they met at the home of H. H. Reynolds, Esq., on the 27th of April, where they had the pleasure of learning from the Rev. Mr. Shaw, Mr. Reynolds and Miss Wynkoop, many interesting particulars. Their report included the petition which was presented to Classis, not only because of the facts it sets forth, but also to give completeness to the history of the movement. The petition read as follows:

"To the Classis of Ulster, in session at Flatbush, this 20th day of April, in the year of our Lord, 1863:

We, the undersigned, residents of Wiltwyck and vicinity, do now, and in the fear of the Lord, memorialize the Classis of Ulster of the Reformed Dutch Church in the following statement and petition:

Whereas, we believe that the interests of the Redeemer's kingdom will be advanced by the establishment in our midst of a church of Christ; and

Whereas, we are now in large measure deprived of the ordinances of the Lord's house, by reason of the remoteness of ourselves and families from organized churches, and are desirous that the appointed means of grace may be brought to ourselves and households in their more complete administration, therefore we unite in respectfully petitioning the Classis of Ulster that they may favorably regard these statements and in accordance with the established order of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church in such cases, proceed to constitute a church of Christ, an organized Church of Christ, to be known by the title of the Reformed Dutch Church of Wiltwyck.

Dated, Wiltwyck, April 20, 1863. Charles Taylor. Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor. Mrs. Christina Van Gaasbeek. Mrs. Mary A. Van Gaasbeek. Ann Eliza Fort. Eleanor Lockwood. Miss Lucy Traver. Mrs. Anna E. Schoonmaker. Mrs. Eliza Weaver. Mrs. Eliza Porteger. Mrs. David Traver. Mrs. Stephen Schoonmaker.

This committee gave the following reasons for organizing a church here: 1. Because a mission station had been maintained here for a period of about twelve years with a considerable measure of success.

2. Because the required number according to the constitution had signed the petition and were ready to join the church.

3. Because by the will of the then late Henrietta Wynkoop Van Soligen, a fund of three thousand dollars was left to a board of trustees, the interest of which was to be used for preaching of the Gospel in Kingston, according to the customs and doctrines of the Reformed Church. This income of $210 at that time, the trustees assured the committee that Miss Henrietta Wynkoop would give $350 a year towards the pastor's salary. She also offered to build a new church edifice, and this promise was fulfilled about a year later.

4. Because of the location. The people needed the Gospel and there was no other church nearby. They would become useful if they had the stimulus which would be derived from local organization and connection with a strong and spiritual denomination. The report was adopted by the Classis and a committee was appointed to organize a Reformed Protestant Dutch Church at Wiltwyck, in the district bounded by the Rondout plank road on the S. W., and the probable extension of Bowery on the N. W.

The meeting of Classis was held May 27th, 1863. A fine congregation, made up of the citizens and friends of the enterprise, was present. Thirteen persons presented letters of dismission from various churches and by resolution of the committee were constituted members of the church organization. The male members then proceeded to choose elders and deacons, and the following were chosen to form the consistory: Elders, Charles Taylor, Edward Houghtaling, Deacons, Francis S. Wynkoop, Jr., and Henry H. Reynolds.

The introductory service was conducted by the Rev. J. Minor and the Rev. William Irvine of Rondout. The Rev. John C. F. Hoos, D. D., preached the sermon from Hebrews 13:17. The following persons united with the church at that time: Henry H. Reynolds, Christina V. Van Gaasbeek, Edward B. Houghtaling, Ann Turk, Lucy A. Traver, Elizabeth Richardson, Elizabeth Brooks, Eliza E. Porteger, Charles Taylor, Elizabeth Taylor, Mary A. Taylor, Ann Elizabeth Van Wagonen and Francis S. Wynkoop, Jr.

A little more than a year after the organization of the church, Friday, July 1, 1864, the newly erected building was dedicated by appropriate services to the worship of the true God. The Rev. Dr. Matthews of New York city preached the dedicatory sermon from Hagai 2:9. The Rev. Mr. Irvine, of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, offered the prayer before the service. The following Sunday the communion of the Lord's Supper was administered in the new church for the first time, the pastor being assisted by the Rev. Dr. Matthews of New York city.

In the meantime a formal call had been placed in the hands of the Rev. William A. Shaw, which he accepted and in due time was installed as the first settled pastor of the new church. Mr. Shaw was a fine scholar and was very proficient in the Greek and Hebrew. Mr. Shaw died September 3, 1901.

The next pastor was the Rev. A. Westveer, who came from Clynem village and began his work October 10, 1872, but was not installed until May 15, 1873. The Rev. Sanford Cobb of Saugerties preached the installation sermon from Matt. 11:30. The Rev. D. H. Van der Veer, of the First Reformed Church of Kingston, charged the pastor and the Rev. A. Arcularius of Port Ewen, charged the people. The Rev. Augustus Blaauvelt, of the Classis of Kingston, offered the prayer and the Rev. Mr. Cooper, of the Rondout Baptist Church, read the Scripture lesson. During the pastorate of Mr. Westveer the congregation began contributing to congregational expenses. Mr. Westveer resigned his pastorate in 1874 and accepted a call to the Shokan Reformed Church.

The Rev. James R. Talmage, D. D., was called to the pastorate of the church in 1874 and continued in that office until 1879. Dr. Talmage was a most talented man. In Corwin's manual published in 1902, the following statement is made concerning him: "He was willing to sacrifice for the cause of Christ and he could stoop to serve."

He died in June 29, 1879. For a while his widow, Mrs. Talmage, remained in the city, but August 15, 1886, she was dismissed to the Rev. William A. Shaw again returned and took charge of the parish as a stated supply. This relation continued from 1879 to 1891.

In the year 1891, the Rev. John Edgar Winne was called. He was licensed by the Classis of Rensselaer and ordained in the Church of the Comforter by the Classis of Ulster. He continued his ministry in this church until May 1, 1902. The old record gives us a part of his record to Classis, April 8, 1902. It is as follows: "At the close of the present pastorate (which ends May 1, 1902) it may not be unfair to summarize and compare somewhat the work of some ten years, with the previous history of the church—some 28 years. In the past ten years there have been received into the church 136 members (only 16 by letter) compared with 177 members during all the previous 28 years; 56 infant baptisms compared with 65 for the previous 28 years; 45 adults baptized compared with 24 the previous 28 years."

Candidates were heard after the resignation of Mr. Winne, but none were entirely satisfactory and so it was decided to obtain the services of Arthur Perlee, Brokaw of New Brunswick, N. J. His work proved so satisfactory that the church would have been glad to have given him a call, the only thing preventing was the fact that he had not yet finished his studies.

During the fall of 1902, the Rev. F. S. Bartram, who had a short time previously moved from Coxsack to Kingston, supplied the pulpit and conducted the prayer meetings. He was a talented man and greatly endeared himself to the people.

After hearing several candidates, the Rev. C. L. Palmer of Shokan, N. Y., was called to the pastorate. He began his labors January 1, 1903, and resigned August 10, 1914. During his pastorate of over eleven years the church has developed splendidly. The records show that he received 172 into the membership of the church. When he left here he took the pastorate of the First Reformed Church, Marlborough, N. J., where is still ministering.

After the resignation of Mr. Palmer, the present pastor, the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe, supplied the pulpit for month or more and after hearing two other candidates the church by almost a unanimous vote (there being only one vote cast for another) called the present incumbent. During the past eight years the work of the church has progressed very rapidly. The membership has more than doubled, there being at the present time over four hundred communicant members. Three hundred and twenty-eight have joined the church by letter and confession. The financial status has improved even more rapidly. The contributions to the church support have quadrupled, and to benevolences the increase is over 800 per cent. The pastor's salary has been nearly doubled, besides increasing the salaries of the sexton and organist very materially. Many improvements have been made. The installing of a fine pipe organ, the addition to the church to make room for the organ, the buying of two pianos, one for the church proper and the other for the Sunday school room, new chairs for Sunday school room, and other minor improvements show that the church has been alive to its work. It is cause for thanksgiving that there is no indebtedness against the church. We have labored and prayed and God has given the increase. Whatever has been accomplished is largely the result of the united effort of the people of this church through the leadership of the pastor and above all the blessing of Almighty God.

Tribute can be paid to those who in the past have been so devoted to the welfare of this church. I have in mind the names of Miss Henrietta Wynkoop Van Soligen, Henry H. Reynolds and his wife, Mrs. Reynolds, Francis W. Reynolds, Augustus W. Reynolds, but it seems to me that we can be especially thankful as we remember Miss Henrietta Wynkoop, who purchased the land and erected this beautiful church in which we are worshipping today as we celebrate the sixtieth anniversary.

Then, too, we cannot soon forget the interest which Miss Sarah B. Reynolds took in this project. Her memory is precious. She died February 14, 1921, and it can be most truly said of her, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints." She died as she lived, a humble, consecrated disciple of her Lord.

When her will was filed in the surrogate's office, April 14, 1921, it was found that she had left this church the beautiful residence which since the early ministry of the Rev. Palmer has been used as a parsonage; $8,000.00, the income of which is to be used for the maintenance of the parsonage, one hundred dollars of this income to be applied annually towards the needful heating and lighting of the parsonage; all the land on either side of Wynkoop Place bordering on Clifton avenue, and a Savings Bank book in Kingston Savings Bank, the sum unknown.

We thank God also for the many faithful men and women, members of this church, those who are living and those who are dead. But what of this church at the present time? It is well organized. With a Bible school, Christian Endeavor Society (Senior and Junior), Ladies Aid Society, Women's Missionary Society, Choir Men's Club and an Adult Bible Class all in a flourishing condition, and the people having a mind to work, we can look forward into the future with splendid anticipations. Like the great apostle we can thank God and take courage.

Let us all strive to be more loyal to Jesus Christ and more earnestly consecrated to our work, your work and my work.

NO GUNS, NEGROES USE BRICKBATS

Officers Have Disarmed Brickyard Workers—Two Held For Grand Jury For Assault.

Having been relieved of most of their guns the colored brickyard populace in the neighborhood of East Kingston resorted to brickbats to settle their arguments last night. For some time past it has been a very usual thing to have the authorities called to East Kingston each Saturday night by reason of some shooting. Determined to stamp out the practice the sheriff and the state troopers have combined their efforts with the result that the sheriff's office is a regular arsenal and shooting in the brickyard section is not so common.

Frank Brown, known as Joker, came into the Kingston City Hospital early in the evening to have his head sewed up. He said he had been struck on the head with a brick moid. He made a complaint at the sheriff's office against one John Southall, charging assault, second degree.

Deputy Sheriff Bongartz went to East Kingston where he was joined by Troopers Roche and Ross. They went to the brickyard section where they located Southall and placed him under arrest.

In the meantime while the officers were making the one arrest another fight was in progress between Douglas Demery, who is a cook on the washburn yard and one Raymond Carr. Demery claimed that Carr struck him on the cheek with a brick. The officers rounded up Carr who was hiding in a clay bank and placed him under arrest on a charge of assault, second degree.

Both were arraigned before Justice Webber on a charge of assault and were held to await the action of the grand jury. They were brought to jail.

TWO DROWNED AS RENSSELAER RAMS STERN OF CORNELL TOW

Peter Ray of East Kingston and David Harris of 130 Murray Street, This City, Missing Since Accident, Which Occurred Off Grassy Point, Below Haverstraw.

About six o'clock this morning while a tow in charge of the tug Perseverance of the Cornell Steamboat line was going, past Grassy Point just below Haverstraw the stern of the tow was rammed by the steamer Rensselaer of the Hudson Navigation Company and two men are thought to be drowned. The tow and the steamer were south-bound. The missing men are: Peter Ray of East Kingston. David Harris of 130 Murray street, this city.

The Rensselaer is one of the largest freight and passenger boats which plies the Hudson river and the Perseverance is the largest tug in the possession of the Cornell Steamboat Company. This tug was bought by the company from the government during the war. The cause of the collision is not known as yet.

ISSUES FRAMED IN GRAY ACTION

Justice Rosch Directs Trial by Jury of Questions of Fact Involved in Conveyance of His Property to Daughter.

On adjoining court on Saturday, Judge Rosch handed down his decision granting the motion made by Judge Clearwater as counsel for Samuel M. Gray in the action against his daughter, Ethel H. Gray, to set aside the instrument executed by Mr. Gray after a commissioner had been appointed in a lunacy proceeding to have him declared a lunatic, by which Mr. Gray conveyed to his daughter his residence on Albany avenue, and stocks and bonds to the value of $200,000.

The order was filed in the county clerk's office this morning, directs that the questions of fact arising upon the pleadings be tried by a jury, and frames the issues as follows:

First, did the plaintiff at the time of the transfer referred to in the complaint, comprehend and understand the nature and effect thereof?

Second, did the plaintiff execute the instrument involved in this action under the belief that unless he did execute it he would be confined in the hospital for the insane at Middletown, New York?

Third, did the defendant give to the plaintiff an adequate consideration for the real and chattel property described in the instrument involved in this action?

PRESBYTERIANS CELEBRATE EVENT

Fiftieth Anniversary of the Laying of the Corner Stone of Roundout Presbyterian Church Observed Appropriately Sunday—Church Has Interesting History.

The fiftieth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the Roundout Presbyterian Church was celebrated Sunday morning with appropriate ceremonies by the congregation and the Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis, pastor of the church, preached an eloquent sermon on "The Corner Stone." Henry W. Otis, the contractor who erected the masonry of the church, was present at the services together with ten others who were present at the corner stone laying half a century ago. Dr. Ellis called attention to the fact that the original ceremonies attending the laying of the corner stone were held on June 4, 1873, and that those who took part in the ceremony were the Rev. E. D. Ledyard, pastor of the church, the Rev. F. B. Wheeler, D. D., of Poughkeepsie; Mayor James G. Lindsley; the Rev. James O. D. Denniston; and the Rev. William Irwin of Troy, a former pastor of the church.

At the request of Dr. Ellis those in the congregation who were present at the corner stone laying arose in their seats.

Frank R. Powley, one of the elders of the church, who was a small boy at the time the church was built spoke briefly of what he remembered saying that the boys in that neighborhood formed a building committee who followed the erection work with keen interest.

Mayor Walter P. Crane, whose grandfather, Walter B. Crane, was one of the founders of the church, was also present at the services Sunday morning, but he said he had no recollection of the laying of the corner stone as he was too young at the time the event occurred.

Dr. Ellis in the course of his sermon said that fifty years ago the members of the church had had faith in the future of the city and had laid the corner stone of the present magnificent edifice. During the years the church had been in existence it had carried on a work whose influence was felt in the up-building of the city. Today with the faith of God in their hearts the congregation was still carrying on the work that had been inaugurated when the first church was erected on the site of the present Temple Emanuel on Abel street.

During the services the chorus choir rendered an appropriate musical program, and Miss Virginia Los Kamp sang as the offertory solo "By the Water of Babylon."

The Roundout Presbyterian Church was organized November 1, 1853, with a membership of sixteen. Since its existence it has been served by the following pastors:

1838-35—The Rev. John Mason.
1836-39—The Rev. William Kelley.

1839-42—The Rev. James W. Sayre.

1842-47—The Rev. John H. Carle.

1847-61—The Rev. Benjamin T. Phillips.

1862-67—The Rev. William Irwin.

1867-74—The Rev. Edward D. Ledyard.

1874-82—The Rev. Isaac Clark.

1882-1890—The Rev. Irving M. Mace.

1890-1900—The Rev. Cornelius Stowitt.

1900-1901—The Rev. Samuel Banks Nelson.

1901—The Rev. Dr. Charles G. Ellis.

Previous to the organization of the church in 1823, Walter B. Crane and George W. Endicott held a consultation the outcome of which was the formation of the first Sunday school in Roundout. From that beginning the Roundout Presbyterian Church came into existence a few years later. The first church services were held in a school house, and at a meeting held there July 9, 1823, Maurice Wurts, Abram Hasbrouck, John Ferguson, George W. Endicott, Edwin H. Bolton, Alexander Snyder and Walter B. Crane, were appointed to act as trustees and a building committee for the proposed new church. On August 12, 1823, articles of agreement were made and concluded between this committee and Paul Brooks for the erection of a suitable building for a Presbyterian church to be 56 feet long and 40 feet wide, with a seating capacity of about three hundred. Work was begun at once on the site now occupied by the Temple Emanuel and on October 8, of that year, the corner stone was laid.

On June 19, 1873, the edifice was dedicated. The cost of the building without the tower, which was added later, was $5,000. In 1853 the building was enlarged and improved at a cost of $3,000. For forty years services were held in the church, and as the congregation grew larger the decision was finally reached to erect a larger church, and a building committee was appointed consisting of Edward Tompkins, David B. Abbey, Charles Bray, Walter B. Crane, Abel

A. Crosby, Roland Otis, James McCausland and the Rev. Edward D. Ledyard.

Lawrence B. Valk of New York city was the architect of the proposed church and the contract to erect it was awarded to Henry W. Otis, mason, and Henry W. Pelen, carpenter, both of this city. The estimated cost of the building was $44,000, but the actual cost, owing to some change in the plan, was $51,280.

The corner stone was laid June 4, 1873.

In the past half century the Roundout Presbyterian Church has grown to be one of the most influential and important churches in the Hudson river valley with a membership of about five hundred. During the pastorate of Dr. Ellis the church was cleared of debt, and about ten years or so ago the church mortgage was burned with appropriate ceremonies.

The services Sunday morning were most impressive and will long be remembered by those who attended.

THE WEEK AT ROUNDOUT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The June meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Roundout Presbyterian Church will be held in the chapel Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The devotional exercises will be in charge of Mrs. I. W. Scott. Mrs. Charles R. O'Connor will tell of "Ten Ways to Kill a Missionary Society." The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Frank Malven, president of the North River Presbyterian Society, who will take for her subject her experiences on a recent visit among the mountaineers at Langdon Memorial School, Mount Vernon, Kentucky. Mrs. Caroline Sager Rich will sing. The "New Era League" of the First Presbyterian Church will be the guests of the ladies of the downtown church.

Miss Elizabeth Bishop and Miss Janet Brown will have charge of the fish pond booth at the annual church fair in November.

Preparatory services will be held Thursday evening in the chapel followed by a meeting of the session for the reception of new members. The Sacrament of Our Lord's Supper will be administered next Sunday morning.

Negro Wit.

The janitor's little boy, very black, was nicknamed "Midnight" by his white friends. He didn't mind them calling him that, but when one day one of his own race exclaimed "Hello, Midnight!" he retorted indignantly: "You're jes' about quarter to twelve o'clock."—Boston Transcript

THE OFFICE CAT

By Fumkin

The Good Time Coming.

An official of the weather bureau says it will soon be possible to forecast the weather for a month, and we have no doubt that the time will come when we can know for a certainty in January whether it will be warm in July or not.

Women never thought of smoking 20 or 30 years ago, which is why they didn't do it.

Many a person sits on friendship's limb and saws the limb off with petty treachery.

The Parting.

They met on the crossing at twilight. Never will they meet again. One was a speeding motorist. The other a railway train.

"Did you see the Trojan's Column when you were in Rome?" "No, but I read the Office Cat column every day."

Some women have such a keen sense of humor that they take their husbands as a joke.

You may shake, you may outrun speed cops if you will, but the coroner always sticks with us still.

Typographical errors, like the poor, are always with us, and remind us of a newspaper write-up of a recent wedding.

The statement was made that "The roses were pink." In a later edition an apology was offered and was followed by the statement, "What we meant to say was, 'The roses were pink.'"

The alarm clock is all right in its place, but it doesn't come in competition with the old rooster.

Babies and grievances grow larger by nursing.

Many a man marries a woman simply because he admires her good judgment in selecting a husband.

"There must be something big behind this," murmured Hezekiah as he lifted the flap of the elephant's tent.

A Texas man who inherited a million dollars quit work and bought an automobile—so he may soon be back at work.

The man who kicks the hardest about the government usually never visits the polls.

Radio.

I called my love by radio. In hopes that she would hear. I asked her if she'd marry me. And closed it "Billy dear."

Oh, sad is my predicament—Indeed, a sorry mess—When I tuned in my receivers, I heard forty answers, "Yes."

Correct this sentence: "The wife has a quart put away some place for medicinal use, but I've never looked for it."

The man who knows it all has very little to impart to others.

KEEPING OUT INSECT PESTS

United States Inspectors Ever on the Alert to Protect Interests of the Agriculturists.

Inspectors of the federal horticultural board of the United States Department of Agriculture are continually on the alert to prevent insect pests from making their way into the United States from foreign countries, often locating them in new and unexpected places, for their ways of arrival are numerous. Twice during the month of March one inspector, in co-operation with customs officials, intercepted living larvae of the European corn borer in stalks of broomcorn contained in passenger's baggage. One interception was made from the baggage of a third-class passenger arriving from Italy, whose intention was to take the infected material to Missouri. The second discovery was made by the same inspector when the same pest was found in the baggage of a passenger from Germany.

These fortunate interceptions emphasize very forcibly the need and importance of carefully examining, in co-operation with customs officials, passengers' baggage arriving from various foreign countries. Work of this kind is now carried on by the federal horticultural board at a number of ports of entry, and as funds permit it is purposed to enlarge this phase of the board's activities.

Worldly Wise.

A girl of high school age walked into a North side grocery recently, chewing gum with an apparent relish, and tossing her head steadily.

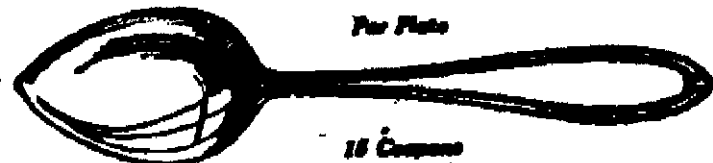

"What will it be for you?" asked a clerk.

"Well, gimme a can of beans, 'a couple pounds o' potatoes, 'a head o' cabbage, 'a I guess that's all," was her order.

"How in the world did you remember all that?" a bystander asked.

"Oh, I don't live very far from here. I keep it in my noodle."—Indianapolis News.

SMITH SIGNED BRIDGE BILL

Among the last three bills signed by Governor Smith on Saturday was the Hackett bill, appropriating $200,000 for the construction of a highway bridge across the Hudson at Poughkeepsie for vehicles and pedestrians. The bridge will connect Dutchess and Ulster counties and will provide the only existing means of crossing the Hudson river between New York and Albany in an automobile without using a ferry.

The Poughkeepsie highway bridge has been advocated strongly by automobile associations and tourists and is expected to bring an increasingly large number of tourists in the Hudson river valley.

HE WAS STEPHEN

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(By 1912, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
STEPHEN'S uncle, James K. Harrington, hung the crumpled sheet into a chair and stared glumly at the traffic streaming down the avenue. Again he reviewed mentally the startling headlines:

"UNDERGRADUATE INJURED IN MIDNIGHT JOYRIDE!"
"Nephew of Well-Known James K. Harrington."

Thus it came about that young Steve, convalescent after a few bad days, faced his uncle in the private room at the hospital and knew he was in for a disagreeable half hour.

"Stephen," he began, "I've given you too much rope, and now I'm going to rectify that little mistake, if possible, before it is too late. You have met my wife's niece, Miss Barbara Endicott?"

Stephen regarded him suspiciously. "Yes," he said shortly.

"Well," said Harrington, "she is the girl you are going to marry. That is, if she'll have you. If you will persuade her to marry you I'll settle an even hundred thousand on you at once. Or, if you do your best but she will have none of you, I will permit things to go on much as before if you behave yourself. Otherwise, never a cent of mine do you get."

Some two years later Roger Dean swung into the home office in a Western city, where his employer greeted him cordially.

"Hello, Roger," he said. "What's the game?"
"Game?" echoed Roger. "What game?"
The other drew toward him an open newspaper and indicated a picture. With a start of surprise Roger examined it intently. "Is this your picture?" ran the accompanying advertisement. "Or is it a striking resemblance? If so, and you wish to earn a large sum, call at the office of W. Sweet, room 212, Hotel Garde, New York."

A day or two later Dean found himself face to face with a hatch-faced individual who regarded him nervously. "Ahem! You are Stephen Harrington?" he asked at once.

Roger regarded him blankly. "Me? I'm Roger Dean, salesman for the Canover Lawnmower people," he snapped out.

"Even so," said the other, quite evidently relieved. "You would not be averse to fighting a wrong, and at the same time making a little on the side? Well, listen, and I'll give you the gist of the matter. James K. Harrington is dead and has left a most peculiar will. Within six months his nephew, who disappeared a while ago, and his niece, Barbara Endicott, are to appear before witnesses and agree or disagree to marry each other. If both agree the estate goes to them jointly. If only one agrees, he or she gets the entire estate. If neither agrees, the money goes to charity. The legacy totals," he snapped his lips, "in excess of $1,000,000."

"And just where do I enter?" questioned the young fellow.
"Well," said the lawyer hopefully, "young Stephen evidently is dead. Now you, not being the real heir, naturally cannot agree to marry her. But by simply impersonating him can take in a neat little sum. Get me?"

Roger regarded the lawyer appreciatively. "Man," he said heartily, "you've got a brain. Count on me!"
It was a solemn little group that gathered in the library of the former James K. Harrington. Roger could not refrain from casting frequent glances at the quietly dressed girl, accompanied by her mother, at the opposite side of the room. Her face was expressionless during the reading of the will. Then, expectantly, she lifted her eyes as the lawyer rose to his feet.

"It is my duty according to the terms of this document to put a question to you, Miss Bradley. Will you marry this—er—Stephen Harrington?"
Barbara's eyes fell once more. "Yes," she said softly.

Sweet appeared at once relieved and satisfied. "And you, Mr.—er—Harrington, will you marry this lady?"
"I will," said the young fellow firmly. Then crossing to Barbara's side he addressed the stunned lawyer. "You see, I really am Stephen. At the time of my uncle's not unreasonable displeasure, Barbara and I were practically engaged. At least, she had consented to marry me if I settled down. Barbara did not wish our affair to be known until I had given proof of actual reform. My self-respect would not permit me to submit to the terms of my uncle's mandate until I had shown that I could stand on my own two feet. In this Barbara absented me. Followed my disappearance, and two years of self-support, I was considering a return to my uncle and the claiming of Barbara when his sudden death interfered with my plan. And I could not resist the temptation to enjoy this little drama which came my way—thanks to you!"

Stephen held out his hand to Barbara. "Come, dear," he said gently. "I want a few words alone with the future Mrs. Harrington."

Good Times Just Ahead.
"Can you remember," asks an exchange, "how you looked forward to your future twenty years ago? Well, this is your future. What are you doing in it?" Oh—er—still looking forward.—Boston Transcript.

PASTOR'S MEMORY GONE FOR YEARS

Has No Recollection of Marriage to Nurse Who Cared for Him in France.

SHELL SHOCK VICTIM

Bonham, Tex.—The sudden disappearance and discovery of Rev. O. C. Huston of this place presents one of the most peculiar cases of long loss of memory on record. He was pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Bonham and for the last eight years he claims to have no recollection of anything that happened, although during that time he married, became pastor of a church, and was accounted a leader in all civic affairs.

Huston disappeared while on a hunting trip. Searching parties were unable to discover any clue which would show that he had drowned, was murdered, or had disappeared voluntarily. His affairs were in good shape and his home life was described as ideal. His wife and friends caused to be published over the country his picture and description.

Huston finally turned up at an army recruiting station at Albuquerque, N. M., and applied for enlistment. Sergt. J. M. Aumen, in charge of the station, recognized him as the missing picture and description.

Huston Was Frankly Amazed.

man from a circular he had received that morning, and wired to Bonham. Huston's wife and his brother, J. C. Huston, of Kansas City, Mo., hurried to Albuquerque.

Surprise for Huston.
Huston was frankly amazed when his wife sprang into his arms. He refused to believe she was his wife, recognizing her instead as a nurse who had helped care for him in a hospital in France after he had been shell shocked during an engagement with the Germans.

The minister recalled the war, his operation, and his nurse, but said he had no recollection of marrying her, but "was glad he had, however." How he reached Albuquerque he does not know, and has no memory of his pastorate or the hunting trip which he took when he disappeared from Bonham.

SLAPPED BY EEL FROM SKY

Pastor Swatted by Fish Supposed to Have Been Dropped by Hawk Who Found It Too Heavy.

Easton, Md.—Many things come out of a clear sky, but it is not often that fanned inhabitants of the water take to daring heights, except maybe, in Maryland, where Rudyard Kipling describes the flying fishes at play.

In Easton, however, it is different. For a large eel dropped from a considerable height, slapped Rev. C. N. Jones, pastor of the St. Michael's Methodist Episcopal church, in the face and wiggle down his body.

Rev. Mr. Jones was walking along Talbot street, when, swift, flash through the air the eel dropped. Since this species of fish has never been known to fly, it is supposed that the eel was dropped by a hawk who found it too heavy to carry off any further, and the eel being of a slippery nature wiggled itself out of the hawk's clutches and dropped to earth.

Giant Rat Attacks Two.
Jersey City, N. J.—A giant rat attacked two persons in the home of Mrs. Sadie Rogacki. The rat then disappeared.

The mother found the rat biting her eight-year-old daughter. The rodent bit Mrs. Rogacki in the throat when she struck it in an effort to save the girl.

Race With Death Fall.
Norfolk, Va.—Death was held off but not defeated in a race with an airplane from Cape Hatteras to Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. W. E. Midgett, wife of a coast guard, was carried by airplane from her home to a hospital when she became ill. She died in the hospital, however.

Also in Other States.
This is the opening sentence from an essay on "South Carolina Statemen," handed in by a high school girl. "At first South Carolina's statemen distinguished themselves in diplomacy. Later, most of their attention was confined to politics."—Columbia (S. C.) State.

SCHMIDTKONZ PUPILS

GIVE PIANO RECITAL

A delightful piano recital was given at the school hall of the Spring Street Lutheran Church by pupils of Miss Lina M. Schmidtkonz, which was largely attended by the parents and friends of the young musicians, who played their numbers, selected from the works of the master-writers of pianoforte music, by memory, with clear technique, beauty of tone and sane expression, and gave evidence of their musical talent and ambition. Their skillful performance reflected most favorably upon the conscientious and thorough work of their experienced teacher, who is a pupil of the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, Mass., and also of the Institute of Musical Art, New York city. THE HOUSE THAT BELL BUILT

JAMES F. BELL, Vice President of the Washburn-Crosby Company, has been touring the country recently arousing interest in a campaign to increase the use of wheat in this country.

Mr. Bell wants everyone to "Eat More Wheat" because, as he says, in so doing a sound market will be provided for the country's greatest food crop. He shows that the country cannot be prosperous without prosperity on the farms; that the farmers cannot be prosperous unless they have a market for their wheat sufficient to consume the grain and strong enough to pay the farmer a fair profit for his work in raising the wheat formerly exported to the present war-torn countries of Europe.

Aside from its own importance, Mr. Bell shows that wheat is the greatest vehicle through which other major farm and dairy products reach the consumer. He says:

"The home consumption of the 170 million bushels of wheat we have raised and exported each year could be accomplished by the eating of one additional slice of bread at each meal in place of other less essential foods. Such a variation in our diet would carry with it a great increase in the use of many other basic farm products such as corn, hogs, milk, feeds, meat and cotton."

1. One slice of bread at each meal would mean a market for 170 million bushels of wheat.

2. Milk. One billion and a half pounds of milk to go into the bread made from the 170 million bushels of wheat.

3. Hogs. 4-1-1 million hogs to furnish the lard to go into the bread.

4. Corn. 163 million bushels of corn to furnish the hogs to furnish the lard to bake the bread.

5. Butter. One billion pounds of butter to spread very thin on the eight billion loaves of bread made from the 170 million bushels of wheat.

6. Rye and Barley. Four million and a half bushels of rye, barley and

7. Dairy Feeds. 1,530,000 tons of dairy feed would be a by-product from this wheat.
8. Sugar. 70,000 tons of sugar to make the bread, etc.
9. Cotton. 22,000 miles of cotton goods to make the sacks to transport the flour made from the 170 million bushels of wheat.
10. Meat, Cheese, etc. Inestimable quantities of meat and cheese would be eaten on the bread and crackers made from the wheat.

Appeal to Telephone Operator.

Jones' wife was away and the cook had just left. He was faced with the task of getting breakfast unaided. But not for nothing was he known as a resourceful man. Going to the telephone, he hailed "central" with, "Hello, operator; say, my wife and the cook are both gone. Will you please tell me how long to boil the coffee?"

MOTHER OCEAN

"People think it is very beautiful when they see the gleaming silvery lights in the ocean at night," said Mother Ocean.

"They call it phosphorescence, which is certainly an enormously big word, but it means this shimmering, dazzling light which they see."

"And we know that it comes from the deep sea fishes and from the glow-worms and fireflies, as it were, of the ocean."

"We know that many fishes have little lights or lamps upon them, which they can turn on and off."

"To people that seems almost too wonderful to be true, but we know that it is true, and we know that the lives and habits of fishes are very marvelous."

"There is Gaff Topsail, for example. He is a splendid fellow and a devoted father, for he holds the eggs of the little Gaff Topsails in his mouth until they're hatched out into fishes."

"And while he holds them in his mouth he goes without eating. That's pretty unselfish of him, isn't it?"

"Indeed it is," said Prince Foam.

"Then think of the cuttlefish with twenty light spots which give forth a brilliant light so lovely as to make anyone think I've a jewel box where that fish is!"

"Oh, there are the kind fishes and the cruel ones, the friendly ones and the naughty ones, and there are the ones who have to study what they must do at all times to protect themselves."

"When I am smooth people cannot believe all the life that is going on in the deep sea homes."

"Nor do they realize all the many little creatures whose living and swimming, eating or marketing, dreaming or planning in Mother Ocean's big home.

"I am going to sing a song now," Mother Ocean continued. "Come, Wave children, come and hum for Mother Ocean as she sings, and dance, too!"

So the Wave children came and they danced, waving so gracefully back and forth, and Prince Foam danced, too, and they all hummed and Mr. Wind joined in the music-making, while Mother Ocean sang this song:

Oh, life on the ocean
Is just full of motion,
There are fishes quite small,
There are fishes quite tall,
There are fishes of charm,
And ones who'll do harm,
There are fishes who fight
And fishes who bite,
Some feed on each other
When they don't want to bother
To hunt for their food,
And they know this will be good,
There are fishes who love
Down below and above,
Mother Ocean's deep home
From which they won't roam,
There are fishes who hate
And those who eat bait,
There are fishes who're smart
And who from danger will dart
So quickly away,
And who never delay
When danger is near,
But who get off, never fear,
There are fishes so bright,
They gleam forth a bright light,
And all kinds of lives
Down deep in the ocean
Are so busy and active
They keep always in motion,
And then the Waves and Prince Foam sang:

What Mother Ocean says is true,
And if we were only you
We'd tell the news all around
That interesting creatures
Aren't all on dry ground,
And Mother Ocean roared, in her deep voice:
Oh, life in the ocean is interesting
Quite,
Never let this fact escape from your sight!

Cruel to Be Kind,
Little Charlie was fond of his cat.

One day he was sitting before the fire stroking his cat. The cat began to purr loudly. Charlie gazed at her for a while in astonishment, then he seized the animal by the tail and dragged her away from the hearth.

Mother entered the room just in time to hear kitty's howl.
"Charlie, Charlie!" said his mother.
"Don't you know it is very wrong to hurt Kitty?"

"I'm not hurting her," replied Charlie, "but I had to get her away from the fire. She was beginning to boil!"

Where Little Albert Lived.
Little Albert J. lived with his father and mother in a large house. His father sold the house and put up a flat building on an adjoining lot. When the family moved into their new home Albert ran across the street, exclaiming to a neighbor: "Oh, Mrs. Smith, we don't live in the big house any more. We live next door to ourselves."

DINNER BY CALORIES

An active adult needs for dinner from twelve to fifteen hundred calories; from the following list he may choose a well-balanced meal as easily as he chooses food from a menu card:

One cupful of clear soup; one-half cupful of cream soup such as corn, asparagus, spinach or tomato, and potato, all one hundred calorie portions. Bean, pea or lentil soup three-fourths of a cupful, one hundred calorie portions. Beef stew, one-half cupful; steak or roast four by one and one-half inches; one cupful of macaroni and cheese; rice with cheese, one-half cupful; nut loaf, one-fourth cupful; small cake of hamburger steak, bean stew, one-half cupful; all one hundred calories.

Spinach, onions, tomatoes, turnips and other succulent vegetables, one-half cupful equals fifty calories; when the vegetable is creamed, for every one-fourth cupful of white sauce add one hundred calories.

One baked or boiled potato, medium-sized and one-half cupful of scalloped or mashed potato equals one hundred calories.

Starchy desserts of rice, tapioca or cornstarch, one-fourth cupful; fruit whip, one cupful; fruit gelatin or dessert, one-half cupful; all one hundred calories.

Now, from the above we may choose one and one-half cupfuls of cream of celery soup, one and one-half cupfuls of beef stew, one cupful of mashed turnips, two large baked potatoes, two tablespoonfuls of butter, four slices of bread, cornstarch pudding, one-half cupful, making a good meal for an active outdoor adult.

A supper or luncheon of one thousand to twelve hundred calories may be selected as follows: One cupful of clear soup, one cupful of macaroni and cheese, one-half cupful of stewed or canned fruit, or two or three pieces; a piece of plain cake, two baking powder biscuits, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-fourth of a cupful of cream on fruit, in tea or coffee, and one tablespoonful of sugar.

WILLOW.
Willow, June 4—Dr. A. J. Miller and a party of eight friends motored up from New York and are spending a week at the Willow Farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Elder have arrived at Mountain Brook Farm for the summer.

Scoutmaster Sohns and Senior Scouts Hassler and Texter camped overnight at Camp Van Wagner, Saturday and called upon N. D. Van Wagner and Capt. H. T. Blythe. Troop 222, of which they are members, will arrive early in July for their annual vacation under canvas.

Mrs. A. B. Lane spent Thursday in Kingston.

The Memorial Day dance at Cross-patch was well attended.

DeWitt DeVall spent Wednesday in Mt. Tremper.

Ernest Gardner, Burton Gardner and the Misses Mabel DeVall and Fannie Gardner spent Saturday evening in Willow.

Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Bishop of New York city were week-end visitors at the home of Hiram Hoyt, Mrs. Bishop's father.

Mrs. M. J. Symonds spent Memorial Day in Woodstock.

Miss Marguerite Gauld and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gauld spent Memorial Day at the home of their mother, Mrs. Anna Howland.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Elghmey and a party of friends spent the holiday at Mr. Elghmey's bungalow here.

The ladies of the Methodist Church will hold a roast beef supper at Mrs. M. J. Symonds' home on the evening of Tuesday, June 5th.

Miss Phoebe Kortright of Wappingers Falls is a guest at the home of N. B. Van Wagner.

Using the Bible.
I am convinced that the Bible with always be more beautiful the more it is understood; the more, that is, we see and observe that every word which we take in a general sense and apply specially to ourselves had, under certain circumstances of time and place, a peculiar, special, and directly individual reference.—Gosha.

Prompt Repairs Are a Measure of Protection

When your automobile is mechanically "right" it is about the most pleasurable and convenient thing you own. It will stay right much longer if mechanical difficulties are fixed as soon as they appear. The development of serious defects, limits the use and life of any car.

Your car, if carefully cared for is least likely to go up in smoke, or to become uncontrollable and involve you in an accident. Yet, no matter how careful you are, the menace of fire, theft, and accident is always present—and against them there is no sure protection except insurance. It's our business to provide you with protection against such loss. Get your automobile insurance here covering fire, theft, collision, liability and property damage before trouble comes.

What Every Woman Admires

EVERY woman admires the fashionable, natural finish of fabrics that come direct from the stores. This beautiful finish you can now get in your own home, with Linit, the scientific starch discovery.

Linit is made by a perfected process so that it remains free-running like water. It never lumps or cakes on the fabric, like ordinary starch. This keeps the fabric clean for a longer time, because dust and dirt do not stick to the material.

Also, the iron doesn't stick, but glides right over the surface and leaves that beautiful French finish that women admire so much.

FOR starching finer and lighter fabrics you need not boil Linit. It can be used instantly in cold water. This saves time and trouble.

Your grocer has Linit—get a package today!

NATURAL AND OTHERWISE

ZION NATIONAL PARK

Zion National Park is in the extreme southwestern part of Utah. Zion Canyon, its dominating feature, bisects the park from north to south. This canyon is fifteen miles long, varies in width from 50 to 2,500 feet and its walls range from 800 to 2,000 feet high. Crooked as a snake's trail, topped with many splendid and enormous domes and peaks and aglow with color, this canyon is one of the striking scenic spectacles of Western America.

Zion is oft referred to as the "Rainbow of the Desert"—its color scheme being a mixture of grays and reds and browns and yellows which shift into entirely new and unexpected combinations of varying degrees of intensity as the sunrise, sunshine and sunset come and go.

This region was first known to white man when pioneers by Mormons who were taking stock of their holdings in 1858. The Mormons colonized here and Brigham Young, their leader and prophet, termed the place "Little Zion"—a sacred place for his people where they might find protection if need be from the Indians who never entered its sacred precincts. The Indians called Zion Canyon Mu-kun-tu-weap (Valley of Many Waters). Zion was little known, however, because of its inaccessibility, until Uncle Sam preserved it for the enjoyment of his people in 1909 by proclaiming it a national park. The great walls of the temple peaks, extending from the high plateaus to the depths of the canyon, display about 10,000 feet of sandstone strata which has been painted by the brush of time in every shade of pink, gray, brown and yellow, striped sometimes with darker colors, covered sometimes with a layer of white. Shadowed by green trees and canopied by a deep blue sky, this scene presents a color scheme of marvelous beauty.

While visualizing such a startling panorama in a desert world, remember that the walls of this canyon have been fashioned by the erosions of centuries into an endless maze of huge forms—arches, domes, towers, spires, alcoves and natural bridges of many styles and sizes and your mind will undoubtedly reach the conclusion that Zion is an out of the ordinary place.

One of the show places produced by nature in building the formation which we know as Utah, Zion presents an unusual appeal.

7,000 Pigeon Racers.

To show the interest which has been aroused in pigeon racing, there are now more than 7,000 members of racing pigeon clubs in this country who run their lofts against their rivals regularly, says Nature Magazine of Washington, D. C. Despite unfavorable weather conditions, the birds will make rapid progress toward their home goals after they start in a race. When the wind is high and strong, they fly very close to the ground, where they are best sheltered from the elements.

Ornithological Quest.

The biological survey and the Bishop museum of Honolulu are sending a scientific expedition to explore the Hawaiian Islands national bird reservation. The company will make collections and gather information concerning the bird life of the reservation, which consists of a dozen or more islands, reefs and shoals stretching westward from the Hawaiian archipelago proper for more than 2,500 miles toward Japan. The Navy department is to furnish a vessel for the use of the party.

Source of Thorium.

It is said that the mineral thorium, now largely used in the manufacture of mantles for incandescent gas lamps, is at present not known to occur elsewhere than in the island of Ceylon. Its discovery was due to the operations of the Ceylon mineral survey. It is exported to Europe and the United States.

Get Plenty of Sprinting and Basting But Not Much Opposition—Score 24-2.

In a game that rivalled the famous contests in the old Mountain League, Kingston High School ran away from Saugerties High School last Saturday at the Saugerties ball park. By not being there, Ring Lardner certainly missed the chance of his lifetime to get unlimited material for his cruel works of art. The contest was exciting, not because of the closeness of the score, but because of the prevailing spirit. It was a reversion to the old kids' game, where such rules as "I won't play," "shut up, I'm the umpire," "wadda you know about it," etc., were strongly in effect, emphasized and magnified by the use of the cheer leader's megaphone. Nevertheless, it was a good game for the Kingston players, for it got them in good spirits, provided some good chances to try several combinations and trick plays, and afforded endless basting practice for them. At first it looked as though the game might have some good playing to it, but it soon took a lighter turn, and proceeded in burlesque style. To be sure, Kingston did not play their best ball. That could not be expected in such a game, for it would take a bunch of stoics, not ball players, to keep from making less than three errors where there were so many things to laugh at. The two runs that Saugerties got were not really earned. One came as a result of Corregan's giving Hermance a walk in the fourth inning when the bases were full, and the other was made through an error on the part of Schmidt, who was paying more attention to some joke than the ball. The Saugerties players showed even less ambition than they did here a week ago Saturday, young Hyman being about the only one taking the game seriously enough to really work. Training rules seem to mean nothing in their young lives, for one of the players even stepped up to bat with a cigarette in his mouth. That is the criticism that seems best to fit, lack of interest in the game. They again allowed a great number of errors, their pitcher receiving poor support. Hyman retired to Trenholm in the eighth inning. Van Loan and Hackett swapped places in the sixth, when the latter hurt his hand and so found it impossible to do the catching.

In the first inning, neither team scored. Hyman scoring three successive strike-outs, and Saugerties failing to make one safe hit. The Saugerties followers had become convinced that their team was going to win surely, but the first of the second cast a different light upon the subject. Kingston ran up a total of five runs, and had Messinger not tried to make three bases on a good two-bagger, it might have been more. From then on the game was a free hitting contest for Kingston, which, supplemented by numerous errors on the part of the home team, allowed the locals to run up nineteen more runs before the game came to an end after two and a half hours of firesome play. The Kingston outfield did some excellent playing, Howard retaining his record of no errors for the season. Corregan's pitching was good throughout the game. The infield played well, despite the distractions afforded them. Brown's refereeing was fair to both sides, though, to be sure, he could develop a better eye on curved balls. Wherever Thymeson came from no one seemed to know, but he certainly does not belong on bases as an umpire. Several of his decisions were seriously questionable and would have given good grounds for an argument had the score been closer.

The local men had a good time on the trip and feel ready for some real hard work. Their playful style will have to stop now and some real drill commence, for they have their hardest game of the season next Saturday when they oppose Newburgh Academy here for the leadership of the "Duso" League.

EMILY SMITH SECURES AN ABSOLUTE DIVORCE

A judgment for absolute divorce in favor of Emily Smith, plaintiff, and against Leo H. Smith, defendant, was filed in the Ulster county clerk's office today. The case was heard by Justice Seeger in supreme court at Newburgh on Friday last. The evidence showed that the defendant had been guilty of misconduct at the city of New York and had lived there with another woman. By the terms of the decree, the plaintiff is awarded the custody of her daughter, Virginia, and is also permitted, if she chooses, to resume her maiden name of Thompson. Milton O. Auchmoody appeared as attorney for Mrs. Smith.

LOCKED IN ROOM WITH HUGE SNAKE

Wife of Museum Director in Desperate Battle for Life With 14-Foot Python.

USES TRUNK AS SHIELD

Port Elizabeth, Natal.—Mrs. F. W. Fitzsimmons, wife of the director of the Port Elizabeth museum, does not mind if she never sees a python again.

The python was caught in a sugar plantation at Mid Hlovo, Natal, and sent to the Port Elizabeth museum. Though not large, as pythons go—a mere 14 feet long—it was a sturdy reptile, as thick as a man's thigh.

Before installing it in a cage in the grounds, Mr. Fitzsimmons had it dumped into a small room on the sunny side of the balcony of his house. In this little room was a trunk used for storing odds and ends.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons wanted something from this trunk in the morning.

Door Locked.

While she was rummaging in the trunk the wind slammed the door and she was horrified to find herself a prisoner, for there was no knob on the inner side.

Presently the great snake, which had been watching her intently, prepared for attack, gathering up its heavy, sinuous coils in readiness to deliver the sledge-hammer blow that precedes its constriction.

After trying to deter it with her stick, Mrs. Fitzsimmons turned the trunk on end and used it as a shield. Taking advantage of its confusion, Mrs. Fitzsimmons clambered on the trunk, flung open the little window high up on the wall and shouted again for help.

Scared Women.

The cook and housemaid came at last, but were too scared to dare to open the door. They brought in a passing butcher, however, who released their mistress.

Next day the kaffir, who looks after the institution's snakes—a big, strong fellow—was sent up to get the snake into a large meale sack and take it off on a wheelbarrow to its cage. The moment he seized the python's neck it flung its coils around him, pinning one arm to his side.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons, hearing the servant's shriek, ran up and calmly took charge of the crisis. Ordering the man to grip the snake's head tightly with his free hand, if he valued his life, she gripped its tail and, by dint of strenuous exertion, unwound it sufficiently to divert its attention long enough to enable the kaffir to break loose. Then more helpers were brought and it was secured at last.

Slayer Murders Family He Suspected of Stealing Hat

London.—A farm laborer named Bonnetfemme, who recently murdered four members of a family named Ducas, for whom he was working, in a village near Toulouse, when confronted with the bodies of his victims—the farmer and his wife and the farmer's parents—showed no regret, and declared that he had shot them all with a gun because he suspected one of them of having stolen his hat, says the Paris correspondent of the London Daily Express.

GIRL SPY CHAINED TO ROCKS AND LEFT TO DIE

Vengeance Wreaked on Red Agent Is Discovered in Cave by Peasant.

London.—The skeleton of a beautiful girl spy chained to a rock and left to die of starvation has been discovered at Hotin, Bessarabia, writes the Berlin correspondent of the London Daily Express.

A peasant who sought refuge from a storm in a cavern was horror-stricken to see a human skeleton secured by chains riveted into the walls of the cavern. A notebook, half-buried by leaves, revealed the story of Russian vengeance.

The girl was Magdalena Frisch, the daughter of a Jewish chemist of Petracow, Poland. She was the fiancée of the Russian alman Savro, who under her influence entered the German spy service, and later became a Bolshevik spy in the armies of Deniken and Wrangel.

Magdalena carried messages from Savro to the Bolsheviks, in which the military dispositions of Deniken and Wrangel were disclosed. Every effort was made to discover the source of the disastrous leakage, but without success until Savro was wounded while serving with Petura. Papers were then found on the alman which revealed not only his treachery, but the part played by his fiancée.

Savro was shot, but Magdalena made good her escape. She was recognized some time afterwards in the street at Hotin and kidnapped. Her captors carried her to the lonely cavern, chained her to the rock, and left her to die.

The girl set down in her notebook full details of what had occurred, and then, in order to escape the tortures of starvation, took poison, with which one of her more compassionate executioners had supplied her.

The notebook is dated "October 23, 1918."

Remains of Man, Dead About a Month, Discovered in Box in Tin-smith Shop.

FINDS HUSBAND'S DEAD BODY

New York.—The body of Charles G. Service was found jammed in a box behind the counter of his tin-smithing shop in Brooklyn, by his wife, Mrs. Mary Carden Service and Louis Struttwolf. An ambulance surgeon said that the man had been dead about a month.

The box is about four and a half feet long, two feet deep and two feet high. It was closed and the hump was down over the staple when Struttwolf unlocked the door of the shop and found it behind the counter. Probably nothing will be known of the manner or cause of death until an autopsy has been performed.

Mrs. Service told the police that her husband frequently left her and stayed away for weeks at a time and that the last time he went away was two and a half months ago. She visited his shop several times, but found the door locked, and Struttwolf, who had a key, was notified. He unlocked the door and the body was found.

Match in Pants Kills Man

Sets Fire to Alcohol Soaked Clothes, Causing Death Before Flames Were Put Out.

New York.—John Wilson, forty-five years old, was burned to death when he dropped a lighted match into the cuff of his trousers.

When he saw his clothes were burning he ran out to the street and fell to the sidewalk. He was dead before the fire was extinguished.

The police found pieces of a bottle in Wilson's pocket which, they said, probably had broken and saturated his clothing with alcohol, causing the flames to spread quickly.

Set Fire to Load of Hay.

Medford, N. J.—Setting fire to a load of hay was a costly prank for James L. Campbell. He must pay for the property he destroyed, a $50 fine, and may lose his license to operate the motorcar in which he was riding when he threw a lighted match into the hay.

Diminishing Flood of the Nile a Serious Problem.

Engineering Commission Proposed to Visit African Lakes With a View to Meeting Situation.

We learn from the Cairo correspondent of the London Times that the Egyptians are a good deal concerned over the diminishing floods of the Nile. In spite of the great dam at Assuan, which now covers with water the beautiful ruined temples at Philae, the summer supply of water for irrigation is almost always insufficient. The rice crops in lower Egypt have failed for several years in succession. Accordingly a commission of engineers is proposed to visit the great African lakes in which the Nile finds its source and see whether any works in that region can be undertaken with probability of increasing the flow of the river in its lower courses.

Climatologists are not hopeful on that point. It is of course a fact that under British government agriculture has widely expanded in Egypt, so that larger demands are made upon the Nile than in earlier times. But it is not probable that the present needs are as great as they were three or four thousand years ago, when Egypt was the foremost civilized state in the world. As a matter of fact there is probably less water in the Nile than there was then, and less than there was even a hundred or two hundred years ago. There is every evidence that the great desert belt that extends across Africa and Asia at or a little above the tropic of Cancer is growing larger and drier. The Syrian desert, which is now an utter waste, was crowded with cities and full of cultivated fields only two or three thousand years ago. Mesopotamia and Persia, ancient seats of civilization, could hardly have risen so high if their climate then had been what it is now. There are plenty of evidences that the Sahara and the Libyan desert have encroached on the fertile lands of north Africa and of the Sudan. The old "granary of Rome" in Tunis is now largely an arid waste. It is not surprising if the Nile draws less water than it used to from its tributaries in the Sudan and loses more than it used to by evaporation.

Most geographers agree that the deserts are growing at present. Some believe that it is only an inevitable step in the drying up of the earth and expect the process to go on forever, though perhaps with occasional remissions. Other scholars say that there is evidence of an extraordinary amount of fluctuation in the climate of the world; that there have been much drier periods than ours, as well as much rainier ones; and that the widening of the northern desert band is only a phase in a long-time movement of climate from wet to dry and back again. But as these secular movements are extremely slow, often taking many thousands of years to complete their swing, none of us now living will be here long enough to know which theory is the right one.—Youth's Companion.

Winnipeg Great Wheat Market. Vice President D. C. Coleman, Canadian Pacific railway, addressing the Winnipeg Kwanis club recently, spoke of the record crop harvested during the season just ended, and said that Winnipeg is now the greatest wheat market in the world in point of receipts. For three months ending November, inspections at Chicago totaled 8,275,000 bushels, at Minneapolis 45,900,100 bushels, while at Winnipeg they reached the enormous figure of 108,231,513 bushels. Mr. Coleman said further, in regard to shipments of grain over the Canadian Pacific railway, that from September 1, on the average of 1,016 cars were loaded each day in Winnipeg for transportation East, which meant that a loaded train left Winnipeg for the head of the lakes every 45 minutes during the 91-day period from September 1 to November 30.

Treating Glass Stoppers. After a bottle of glue has been opened rub a little fat or oil around a sound cork before inserting it in the bottle, and the cork will pull out quite easily. Glass stoppers should be treated in the same manner.

Record Herring Catch.

The herring hauls of the Pacific coast may yet rival the North sea. According to Gouge-Miller, there has been some very large catches of herring made off the coast of British Columbia. In fact, the firm says that it has caught as much as 200 tons of herring in one day, which would probably mean 1,500,000 fish. Its total catch during the last season, which begins about the middle of October and ends about the middle of February, was in the neighborhood of 50,000 tons, about 400,000,000 fish.

Largest Thermometer.

The largest thermometer in the world has been erected on the boardwalk near Michigan avenue, Atlantic City. It is fifty feet high, enabling promenaders a mile away to read the temperature. The mercury in the tube is ten inches wide and is operated by a system of small thermometers with electrical relays. Lights on the board indicate the temperature accurately and automatically.

100,000,000 a Year Saving In Cost of Fuel for the Railroads of the great strides made by the railroads during the past eight years has been along the line of fuel economy, and it is estimated that 30 per cent of the locomotives in use are now equipped with heat-saving devices. It costs an average of $12,000 a year for fuel for the 30,000 locomotives in the tremendous sum in approximately $600,000,000 to the use on an increasing number of locomotives of means to reduce the outlay.

Based partly on figures of the Interstate Commerce Commission, partly on experimental data and the figures of the American Railway Association, the research department of the Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation has just completed a study showing the possibility of saving in this way at least $100,000,000 yearly. That would amount to about a dollar's worth of coal for every man, woman and child in America.

One of the ways many of the roads are taking to save fuel is through the use of the feed water heater which uses the heat of the exhaust steam to raise the temperature of the water entering the boiler, thereby making it unnecessary to use so much coal to create steam. In other words, more steam can be generated from a pound of coal, which, of course, gives the locomotive more power.

"Driven" reaches heights of best American films. It stands as one of the best photoplays we have ever seen from an American producer. We haven't the space to be as enthusiastic about this film as we would like to be.

—New York Daily News.

Whoever misses this piece misses a film that he would have been glad to remember. It is gratifying to be able to recommend this picture as one of the finest we have ever seen.

—New York Morning Telegraph.

One of the really fine things, dramatically, which has been shown on Broadway.

—New York World.

It is deserving of high rank among the fine things the movies have produced.

—New York Herald.

"Unusually well made. One of the most genuine films ever shown on Broadway. There are scenes in 'Driven' which reach the summit of cinematographic power. It is impossible to imagine how the things they say could have been more effectively told.

—New York Times.

Among the very best, not only this season, but all other seasons, 'Driven' could be utilized as a model to serve the great majority of cinema producers.

—New York Globe.

Fascinating and real. Mr. Brabin has done it perfectly. It is well worth seeing.

—New York Tribune.

A photoplay having every element of an exceptional picture.

Insect Said to Have Had First Idea of Diving Bell.

If Not Actual Inventor, It Is Pretty Sure He Was the Earliest User of the Device.

It is claimed that the diving bell was invented by a spider. At least we are certain that if it was not actually invented by him it was used by him long before the hydraulic engineers made one for the same purpose.

The diving bell is a cup-shaped body with an open end down, which is let into the water. The air is caught in the bell and keeps the water from rising beyond a certain level from any specified depth and, of course, allowing anyone inside to breathe and act as if he were on dry land.

The improvement of the diving bell, known as the caisson, is a huge pipe that has compartments, into which air is pumped from above. The spider's bell is filled more in this manner than in the other.

The name given to these little spiders is appropriate—the naids of the family of arachnids. A naid will build a little house of waterproof silk, held fast by strands fixed to the neighboring blades of grass and stones several feet under the water. He completes the entire structure before filling it with air—as if he knew that the air would tend to make it rise to the top and thus hinder the attaching of the anchors.

The naid swims down from the surface with bubbles of air and turns them loose in the airy structure. The process is repeated several times until the little house is full of air. Of course, the open end of this house is down, and this has to act also as the entrance to it.

Another peculiar thing about the naids is that they never get wet. They have thousands of small hairs on their bodies which hold and keep the air from being washed off when they enter water, and so the air sticks and water cannot approach.

The water beetle is probably the only other insect engineer in the naid's class. It builds a waterproof nest under water, but does not live in it. It merely lays its eggs in the nest, seals it up and leaves.

The mason bee, as its name implies, is a builder of structures of stone and mortar. The nest is attached to almost any solid structure, and actually does consist of small stones cemented together with mortar. The house consists of many cells of oval shape, and into each an egg is laid. The cell is lined with silken webs by the mother, who gets out of it by a hole in its top. Before leaving, however, she hermetically seals up the cell.

By Way of Being Conciliatory.

Mr. and Mrs. Tarker, although really fond of each other, had frequent quarrels, owing, no doubt, to infirmities of temper on the part of both. Mr. Tarker was telling his troubles to his elderly maiden aunt.

"Now I try to be as good a husband to Clarissa as I know how to be," he said, "but we don't seem to get along. It takes so little to irritate her, and when she starts to scolding, she never knows when to stop. She takes offense, too, at such little things."

"Then don't say those little things, Henry," said his aunt. "When she is cross you must try to be conciliatory."

"I am conciliatory, Aunt Jennie," he answered. "I often say to her, 'Clarissa, I know the utter uselessness of trying to reason with you, but will you listen to me just a minute?' and she gets mad even at that."

—Philadelphia Ledger.

Something of a Surprise.

Little Joan's father was a congressman and a Republican, and accordingly Joan breathed an atmosphere of politics and believed only Republicans went to heaven. Her big sister's chum had the stigma of being a Democrat, and though she frequently stayed with the family, Joan considered her a rank heretic and only tolerated her through a natural largesse of heart. One evening, when the chum happened to be occupying the guest chamber, Joan stumbled into it looking for her sister and surprised the lady of Democratic convictions in the midst of her devotions. "Oh!" exclaimed Joan in open-mouthed amazement. "I never knew you said your prayers! I thought you were a Democrat!"

Lieutenant George Barbot's demonstration of his motor-glider, or "flier plane," as it has been nicknamed in this country, at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, New York, has practically proved his contention that the day of general airplane travel is not far distant. The tiny monoplane, weighing only 300 pounds, attained a speed of seventy miles an hour on a gallon of gasoline. The French aviator put it through severe tests, and it answered each time, just as it did in its recent flight across the English Channel. Barbot has stated that the plane, which has a fifteen-horsepower motor, can be manufactured in quantity for less than $400.

GEN. SCHATZ'S MEN DEFEATED

By Colonials Here By a 6-5 Score—Fielding Improves—Coyle Knocks Home Run—Ross Pitches Well—Wilson Knocked Out in Sixth.
The third great battle of the year has been fought and won.
A third Hudson valley team has been trampled on by the Colonial warriors under the command of General Schrick.
Who were the victims? Why none other than the clan of Schatz under the command of General Schatz himself and his efficient captain Sir Thomas McCombs. Yes, Tommy has royal blood in him, hence the title of Sir as well as captain.

Up from the city of Poughkeepsie came these warriors determined that for once in their lives they would leave the Colonial city on the long end of a baseball score. But once again their hosts treated them in a rather rough manner and so they returned to their own stamping grounds, still the champions of Poughkeepsie, but far from being the champions of Kingston.

General Schrick gave Sid Ross, the Colonials' portside the assignment for the day and to say the least Sid pitched a good game. McCarthy seemed to be the only man who could solve the offerings of the former Mountain League player to any considerable extent. Skip succeeded in chalking up three hits out of five times at bat. Altogether the visitors made nine hits.

At last the Colonials seem to have come up out of their fielding slump and if they stay above water for the rest of the season there isn't any team in this vicinity which is going to have much of a chance to score a win over them. Matty Deegan made four put outs and registered four assists Sunday without making an error. This is an accomplishment for Matty considering the slump that he has been in for the past two or three weeks. Matty is determined not to get in the throes of any more slumps this year. Russell, although he did have one error chalked up against him, made a sensational stop in the third inning of Mullane's hit between short and third and then, when way out of position, pegged the ball over to Bobby in time to get the runner at first. Then we must not forget to tell you about the most sensational catch that has been made at the Fair Grounds so far this year. This catch was made by Charlie Terpening in the eighth inning when after three straight hits had been registered by the clan from Poughkeepsie and one run had already come over the plate Hamill hit a terrific line drive between left and center, one of those hits which has gone for three bases many a time this year. Charlie raced over however and pulled the ball in saving at least two runs, and two runs in a game with a club from Poughkeepsie mean something.

Wilson, a pitcher from Rhode Island, did the hurling for the Schatz for six innings after which Lowe did the hurling. This boy Wilson was touched for ten good safe blows during the time that he was in the box and the worst part of it all was that they all came at the wrong time for him. In other words most of them were bunched. Lowe allowed two hits during the short time that he was in the box.

The Schatz club by a series of good hits put over one run in the first inning. In this inning Deegan made a sensational stop of Clark's grounder that looked like a sure hit. With two out and McCue on the bags, Deegan, Ross, Terpening and Roberts all registered good clean hits and Hamill and McCarthy registered errors and after the smoke was cleared away it was found that the Colonials had put over four runs.

In the second with Russell on first as a result of four balls, Coyle knocked a home run which gave the local team two more tallies. The Colonials put over two more runs in the sixth after which Wilson was relieved by Lowe. The Schatz club added two runs to their side of the score in the eighth and ninth innings and the local team put over one more run in the eighth.

BLOOMER GIRLS DROP FARCE COMEDY TO COLONIALS

On Saturday afternoon at the Fair Grounds the Bloomer Girls of Little Falls were defeated by the Colonials of this city by a 6-1 score in what proved to be a farce comedy. The only redeeming feature about the whole contest was that a new pitcher was brought to light in the person of "Fritz" Brown who up to this time has been the efficient mascot of the Colonials. The game was called in the sixth inning.

Diamond Squibs

All friends of baseball are enemies of baseball pools.

The winter of the umpire's discontent is in the summer.

Whether he was away or not, Mr. Ruth has come back.

Ed Hock, outfielder, has been released under option by Cincinnati to Oklahoma City.

The St. Louis Nationals have transferred Pitcher Ad Pierotti from the Houston club to the Syracuse club.

So far Reb Russell, as a sort of National League Babe Ruth, has fallen down harder than the Babe himself.

The Pittsfield club started the season with two new pitchers from the New York Giants, Webb and Haman.

Homer Summa is well liked by the Indians. The former Texas league star is playing a good game both afield and at the bat.

Bridgeport Tom Downey has been engaged as manager of the Wilkes-Barre team of the New York-Pennsylvania league.

Lefty Groves of the Baltimore Orioles made a new International league record for strikeouts when he struck out seventeen Syracuse hitters.

The Canton club of the outlaw Midwest Industrial league announces that it has signed Bill Rummel, one-time outfielder with the Salt Lake club.

Pitcher Howard Ehmke, who couldn't win for Washington or Detroit, or at least didn't pitch the sort of ball that satisfied, is showing special ability with the Red Sox.

Jim Caveney, the former coast leaguer, has been swinging the willow with telling effect for the Reds. He is up among the sluggers of the National league.

Dad Hankins, the new Washington rookie, is said to be the slimmest man that ever stood in a pitcher's box. He stands over six feet, and weighs less than 150 pounds.

The St. Louis Cardinals sent the veteran Joe Shultz to Houston on a one-day notice of recall agreement. The Houston club needed an infielder and the versatile Shultz can play infield as well as he can the outer garden.

Mary Buhner, wife of...

Miss Mary Buhner of New York is recognized as the "bravest girl in America." She has been awarded the American Red Cross's "bravest" valor-honor and the bravery-medal of the Carnegie Institute as a tribute to her courage in making a valiant fight in Tampa Bay, Florida, last year to save Miss Dorothy McClatchie, a friend, who had been attacked by a barracuda while swimming. The girls were half a mile from shore when Miss McClatchie's leg was almost severed by the sea tiger. Swimming in a pool of blood, Miss Buhner towed the dying girl to shore, while sharks broke the water all about them, drinking in the victim's lifeblood.
